The primary purpose of this short term scientific mission is to share information, as well as to evaluate how tools developed at Aalto could benefit the Early Modern Letters Online database managed at Oxford. The mission will allow the partners to better explore which avenues appear most fruitful for further collaboration related to the aims of the COST Action, in preparation of more substantial collaborative applications to come at a later date. Concretely, at Aalto University there has been much research by the applicant as well as others into modeling and publishing complex cultural heritage collections as Linked Open Data. Aalto and the applicant have also undertaken considerable research into how such collections can be integrated to provide a unified view to diverse collections.
